Dental sedation from Harley Street Dental Studio

3 questions to help you conquer your fear of the dentist - the easy way

Does the thought of seeing the dentist make you feel...

... fearful, anxious, phobic, scared, nervous, ill?

One in four patients are afraid of visiting the dentist, British Dental Association research suggests.

There could be many reasons for your anxiety.

Maybe it's the sights and sounds...

... bright lights, needles, metal instruments, drilling.

Maybe you've had a painful experience. Or maybe you just can't stand the thought of a visit to the dentist.

At Harley Street Dental Studio we've seen it all before.

HARLEY STREET
DENTAL STUDIO

We've got vast experience of helping patients like you deal with their fear.

But can we help you?

To find out, please answer these 3 simple questions.

1. Would you like to take the stress out of visiting the dentist?
2. Are you ready to feel confident and comfortable about visiting the dentist?
3. Would you like to find a way of letting the experts deal with your dental problems before they get too big?

If the answer is "yes, yes, yes" then the answer...

... is dental sedation.

In other words, we'll give you a little something to help you relax.

It's affordable. And it can be used to make most dental treatments a lot easier.

Many of our patients say they can now deal with a visit to the dentist.

Sedation takes the stress out of it, they say.

And knowing we'll be helping can make you feel less anxious before your visit.

How does it work?

[We offer two ways to help you conquer your fear of the dentist:

Simple inhalation sedation...

... is the answer for most people.

It's usually enough to make a trip to the dentist much less stressful.

It's the same as the "gas and air" given in childbirth. Except the nitrous oxide and oxygen mix - sometimes called "laughing gas" - is delivered through a small nosepiece rather than a facemask.]

Intravenous sedation...

... starts with a small scratch on the back of the hand. You'll feel calm and relaxed - but you'll stay awake. And you'll be able to talk to the dentist.

But you probably won't remember very much.

Deal with your dental problems

If you feel anxious about the dentist, you may have been putting off a visit.

With sedation you can deal with dental problems before they become much worse (and much more difficult to deal with).
